FACING DISGRACE KILLS HIMSELE

Method of Snelgrove's Suicide an Exact Repetition of Robertson Tragedy.

the office of the association in the Com-mercial club building at 8:10 o'clock yesterday forenoon. It was apparent that Mr. Snelgrove had read the details of the tragic death of Mr. Robertson, and had planned to kill himself in almost exactly the same way.

Undoubtedly the cause of Mr. Snel-grove's suicide was the fact that he had recently been discharged from the em-ploy of the association, because of a shortage in his accounts to the amount of $700. This shortage was discovered a week ago, and Snelgrove was discharged pending an investigation.

Since his discharge from the association's employ Snelgrove has brooded almost constantly over his disgrace. The last few days he is said to have been drinking heavily. Yesterday morning he left his home at 7:30 o'clock and went to the office of the Credit Men's association. He spoke to the office clerks and asked whether or not Mr. Van Dam, the man-ager of the association, was in his office. On being informed that he was not, Snelin a nervous, excited tone, which she could not account for.

On entering the private room he found the body of Snelgrove in a chair beside his desk. Blood was streaming from the mouth of the dead man, and in one hand .38-calibre revolver was still smoking he bullet which had ended the life of Mr. Snelgrove passed through the roof of his mouth and into his brain. It was evident that Mr. Snelgrove had placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and shot himself in just the same manner in which Robertson ended his life.

Dr. Seymour B. Young was called and he confirmed the belief of those who had found the body, that death had been in siantaneous. street. Good-bye, dear Van. ED." There was nothing in the note nor in the actions of the man just prior to his death that would indicate what prompted him to kill himself. Nevertheless, the officers of the association feel positive that Snelgrove felt remorseful over his action in taking money which had been turned over to him to be placed in the treasury of the association, and realizing his inability to make reparation, killed himself rather than face the disgrace attendant upon his action.

The shortage in the accounts of Mr.

The shortage in the accounts of Mr two weeks by accountants who audited the books. It was customary for some of the officers to receive from the treasury sums of money at different times, which were charged as personal loars. For some months past, it is said, Sneigrove did not check off these loans when the money was repaid by the officers of the association, but instead kept the the association, but instead kept the money paid in and left the accounts against the officers stand on the books. It was estimated yesterday that Snel-grove had secured in this manner in all about $700. This is not lost by the association, but by the officers against whom these accounts are still standing. H. Van Dam, jr., John Q. Critchlow and Walter Wright are said to be practically the only persons who will suffer by the shortage of the former cashier.

Widow Is Prostrated.

Immediately after Mr. Snelgrove killed himself, H. H. Snelgrove, a nephew, broke the news to the widow, A little later Mr. Van Dam and Dr. Young called on Mrs. Snelgrove at her home at 367 East First South street. Mrs. Snelgrove was prostrated by the news and was in such a condition yesterday that she required constant medical attendance. In accordance with Mr. Snelgrove's wish, the body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Joseph William Taylor. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.
